Brief Portfolio Benoit MARCOUX

Intention :

What I want for my project is to create something with a global design that I could use to revamp my CV my portfolio, and maybe other documents. The idea is to have a design very minimalist, but yet steady and clean, that could easily be reapplied to different piece of work.

Creating a mobile app is something I have been interested in recently considering the fact that it allows a good amount of interactivity with the user, and considering that working with mobile is something we are going to have to do in the near future. Still, I would like to try to keep it simple, technically speaking, in order to focus on the graphic design and motion design parts of the app, if possible. What I am trying to imply is that, despite the fact that this project is "back-end" orientated, I would like to spend time on the "front" part of it, too.

Lil' Mountains :

We all have dreams and projects within us that are awaiting to be unveiled. I would like to borrow Neil Gaiman analogy when he talks about the goal that we have, what we want to become, as if it were a mountain. And you prepare all your life in order to get closer to that mountain, and in order to be ready to climb it.

I want to use this analogy in order to shape my application. What I want is to merge many informations, timeline, work and experience informations, projects informations into a seamless experience. I do not intend to create a "One page", but using a few mobile interactions (like swipes and touch), I have a good idea on how to merge nicely these differents datas. So the shape of the application would be to follow a timeline that would be shaped like littles moutains, the differents experiences that you had in your life, the one that also shaped you.

Each "top" of a mountain would be a particular project or a particular experience (but mostly project), and from there, you can have a look at the work and studies I was in while realising this project, and some more informations about the project itself. These informations would be accessible if you swipe the screen up (to have more informations about the project) or down (to have informations about the background / work / studies).

Content :

I already have an old book that I need to update. But the work I have done with this former portfolio is to show the projects that give hints about my way of thinking and dealing with project (that is what a book is for, right ?)
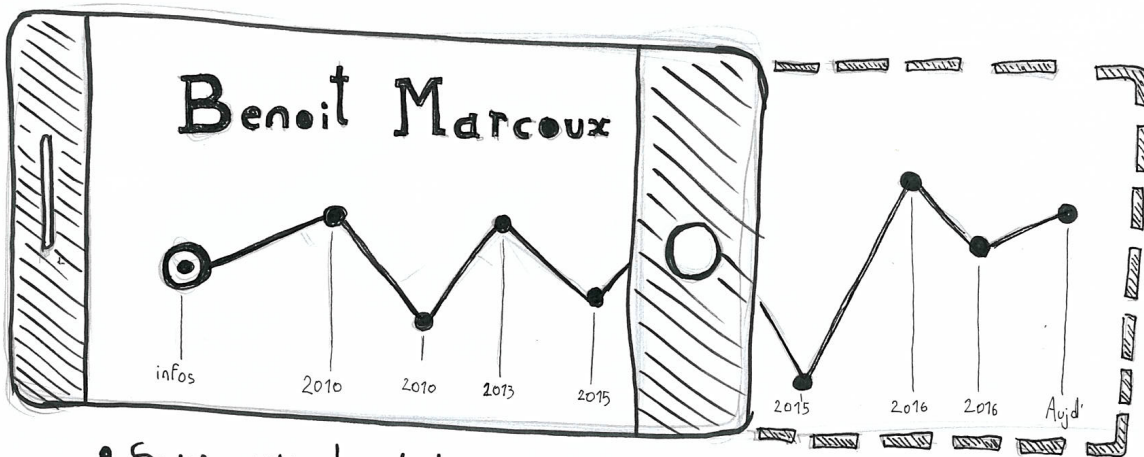

Sadly I made it a few years back without any knowledge about web technologies, so I created it with what I was able to use …
It is made with Flash …
